CARD OF THANKS FROM MR. PEARCE PATON

I desire to sincerely thank all my friends who were so loyal to me during my campaign and especially on election day. I certainly feel proud of having had accorded me the largest majority ever given to an office-seeker—1662—votes more than my opponent; it is something to feel proud of and I want my friends to know that I feel highly complimented.

Yours truly,
PEARCE PATON.

The agony is over and after a long campaign the Democrats of Bourbon county went to the polls Saturday, and by their votes placed in nomination a strong ticket for Judicial, county and city offices, good and true men all, and everybody is glad it is all over.

One of the most hotly contested primary elections held in Bourbon county in many years was staged and passed into history when the polls closed Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The election was very quiet, no disorder being reported to the authorities. Practically without exception the polls opened promptly on time, six a. m., with all the election officers on hand. The figures presented in the election table on page one, of this issue tell the results of the contest more eloquently than words can. Look them over.

With clear weather and a comparatively low temperature, the vote both in Paris and the county, was heavier than anticipated before the primary. The size of the women vote was surprising, as women went to the polls from the early morning hours until the day's battle closed at four o'clock. This interest resulted from efforts made by the club women and others all through the campaign.

Taking the Sheriff's and County Clerk's races, which perhaps held more interest than the others, as a basis, and in which there appears to have been the heaviest vote cast, more than ten thousand votes were cast in the county Saturday. As was to be expected in so large a field of candidates the result brought some distinct surprises to the general public in nearly all the races, and some keen disappointment to the aspirants who went down in defeat, and to their friends and supporters who stood so loyally by them. But, as everybody knows, these incidents are parts of the game of politics.

The returns were received at THE NEWS office, and tabulated on a large bulletin board placed in front of the show window. A dense crowd of interested and eager people lined the sidewalk in front of THE NEWS office from the time the first figures were marked up until the last return was in, and the crowd departed, each happy or depressed, according to the way he had voted. But all good Democrats are ready to do their duty and give their loyal support to the nominees at the November election, which is as it should be.

The results, which are best noted in the election table published in this issue, were as follows:

Pearce Paton, for County Clerk, led the ticket, with a total of 3311 as against 1649 for J. B. Caywood, his opponent, his majority being 1,662. For Sheriff, M. Peale Collier defeated his opponent, R. Ed. Bedford, by a majority of 517. For Jailer, James E. Taylor, won out in a field of six candidates, Ed. Herrin, John T. Maher, Spence Menifee, Jos. A. Smith, W. O. Butler, by 649. For Tax Commissioner, Benj. Woodford, Jr., was successful over his opponents, John J. Redmon and Joe B. Smith, with a lead of 369. The following were nominated without opposition: Robt. L. Stout, Circuit Judge; Victor Bradley, Commonwealth's Attorney; Wm. H. Webb, Circuit Clerk; David D. Cline, County Attorney; George Batterton, County Judge; James H. Thompson, Representative; Henry S. Caywood, State Senator; Rudolph Davis, Coroner; Frank P. Lowry, Magistrate.

The contest for city offices, those of Mayor and Councilmen, overshadowed slightly by the Sheriff's and Clerk's races was spirited, resulting as follows: E. B. January, 795; John Merringer, 580; D. C. Parrish, 531; F. E. Nelson, 70; J. W. Brown, 67. For Councilmen the following were nominated by the totals set opposite their respective names: First Ward—Wallace W. Mitchell, 588; Dr. Wm. Kenney, 545; George D. Speakes, 418; Second Ward—Frank Skillman, 444; Curtis Henry, 400; B. J. Santen, 394; Third Ward—George L. Doyle, 190.

In Clark county Henry V. Thompson, candidate for Representative, won over two opponents by a majority of 300. Mr. Thompson is a native of Bourbon county, and a brother of Bourbon's Representative nominee, James H. Thompson, Messrs. A. S. and I. D. Thompson, and Mrs. Swift Champ, of Paris.

HIGH STREET BEING RECONSTRUCTED.

The Henry Bickel Co., of Louisville, who have the contract for reconstructing High street and the intersecting streets from Fourth to Fourteenth are making substantial progress in the work. Another shipment of machinery and equipment arrived Saturday.

Due to the fact that the reconstruction work on High street will necessitate the relaying of new tracks on that street, the Kentucky Traction & Terminal Company yesterday placed at the interurban station at Fifth and High streets large placards, worded as follows:

"NOTICE TO PATRONS:
"Due to the reconstruction of High street, and the necessity of tearing up our tracks, effective as of August 8, we will abandon operations on High street.

"Interurban passenger cars will leave Fourteenth street two minutes later than the present schedule at the Fifth street passenger station. "Interurban freight will be received in a box car located on the siding at Fourteenth street.

MAYOR JANUARY THANKS HIS CONSTITUENTS

I take this method of thanking the good friends who so loyally stood by me in my recent campaign and cast their vote for me on last Saturday.

I feel very proud to have served the people of Paris for one term as Mayor and certainly do feel complimented by them giving me their endorsement by re-electing me for a second term.

It shall be my aim to give the people of Paris the best service for the next term of office that is in my power, at least I will do what I think is honest and just in the performance of my duties.

Courteously yours,
(1t) E. B. JANUARY.

RUNAWAY HORSE HITS AUTO; DRIVER HURT

A horse attached to a wagon belonging to the Fuhrman Transfer Co., while standing near the Hotel Fordham, yesterday morning, became frightened and plunged down the street at breakneck speed. The wagon was loaded with furniture to be transferred to another place in the city. In his mad journey through the streets the horse narrowly missed a number of autos parked near the curb, and continued uninterrupted until when near the Paris Billiard Company.

At this point the animal swerved from the middle of the street, striking the auto of Matt Lair, which was standing in front of the place. The driver of the wagon, Will Arnold, employed by Mr. Fuhrman, was thrown out, sustaining severe bruises and cuts, but no bones were broken. He was picked up and taken to the office of Drs. Kenney & Stoekenger where his injuries were treated, after which he was taken to his home. The auto sustained a broken fender, the wagon and horse escaping injury.

ANOTHER HONOR FOR "BALLY"

Some men are born for honors, some acquire honors, and still others have honors thrust upon them. "Bally" Paton, the genial County Clerk, past, present and to-be-again, belongs to all three classes. In addition to receiving the nomination to his present office in the primary election held Saturday, "Bally" had another honor conferred upon him. On the same day of the election, a fine trotting mare owned jointly by James M. Caldwell and Harry O. James, dropped a colt, sired by Mainleaf. The colt was named "Bally Paton" in honor of the popular Clerk. The colt's dam is by Gambetta Wilkes.

EDITORIAL FLINGS OF THIS THAT 'EN 'TOTHER

A city or county is not made great by the number of square miles it contains, but by the number of square people it contains.

Human nature is a peculiar proposition. We condemn the other fellow for doing the things we sometimes do ourselves, and the chances are that we would resent the calling down if we ourselves got it.

You can't get three men together
when you sound a call for a meeting for an uplift-and-public-benefit-movement, but there are never enough seats to go around when you sound a call for a "neighborhood poker party."

A Paris woman wants to know why so many of our remarkable paragraphs, jingles and things are directed at the girls' short skirts. Well, our shots don't hurt the girls, so to speak, and they help us to fill our columns. Was there anything else in our department, to-day, madam?

There are just forty-five things a Paris autoist should think of before trying to pass the car ahead. If he should forget one of them he may find himself all speeded up and with no place to go. The same is true of the person who endeavors to cross the streets when the autoists are making speedways of them.

A little Paris girl went to the country to pay a visit to her grandparents. Walking through the garden she chanced to see a peacock, a bird she had never seen before. After gazing in silent admiration she ran quickly into the house and cried out: "Oh, grandma, come and see!
One of your chickens has bloomed
out in full bloom!"

Hope at last! The katydids have sung. For a few nights past they have been making music that, according to the weather prognosticators, means frost within six weeks.
While the blistering sun has been making the thermometer take one somersault after another, and left humanity sweltering in perspiration,
it is hopeful to contemplate that there will be a change—if the joyful chorus of katydids predict the truth. They may give themselves over to the jazz type of music, instead of some of Nature's grand songs, but just this once their jazzing has been hailed with delight.

A Scene Not in the Picture

By KATE EDMONDS

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"No," said the landlady stonily, "I'm sure I don't know where Miss Ford went to—some one said she had given up her position and gone out West to act in the movies, but I'm always busy and can't keep track of folks after they leave my house. Are you the young soldier she was engaged to?"

Dick Reynolds nodded.
"Yes—you look like the picture she had on her bureau. She read that you had been killed in action and so she just got pale and sick and went away.
Sorry."

"Thank you," said Dick as he turned away. He wrote a letter to Marcia, addressed it in care of her old employers, marked it to be forwarded and waited. At last after months of fruitless waiting and searching he found a position in Chicago. Night after night he went to the movies, hoping for some clue, and then there came a time when he saw a well-acted screen-drama—and his own Marcia being kidnapped by a dark villain in a black evening cloak.

"Ain't it awful!" shivered a girl sitting next to Dick.

Her companion giggled. "It looks real, but 'tain't."

Dick found it difficult to believe that the characters were not real with Marcia's face so clear, so agonized.
He saw the villain carry her away in a black motor car to a greasy looking tenement, where several well dressed people seemed to threaten her life. One man caught her slender wrist and pulled her toward the door.

"Hi!" yelled Dick, and everybody laughed. He looked fiercely around and sank back in his seat, grim and

"Dashed Away."

alert. He watched the picture until the doors closed and the next day he saw it again. By this time he was sure that his own sweetheart was acting in the movies. Then he saw the manager of the theater.

With the name of the producers he found the location of the company—Hollywood, California,—and packing his grip he set out in the search for Marcia. By this time he knew the picture by heart, learned that the name of the actress was Elizabeth Jayne, but strong in his own belief he declared the girl to be none other than Marcia.
At Hollywood the studios were all so busy that he barely escaped becoming famous because he had refused so many chances to act as a substitute or an extra in one of the many companies. Once he had an adventure that he never forgot.

"Say, young feller," yelled a hot-looking man, as Dick approached a studio. "Want a job?"

"Looking for a girl," returned Dick.
"Plenty of girls here—can you ride?"

"Yes."

"Stunts?"

"Cavalry."

"Good. Come in. Man gone sick—scene waiting; you got to shoot a man and carry off a girl."

Dick grinned and followed the excited director. He was led into a dressing room, given a cowpuncher's outfit of clothes and come rolling out with a swagger that made the director stare.

"Say, you've been a puncher?"

"Yes."

"Steady job, maybe—now you hop into my car. The rest of the bunch waiting out on location ten miles away—just sent in word that Ames has broken his leg; listen now." He drove the car recklessly while he poured into Dick's ear the instructions
he was to follow. "When you're called you ride up to the door of the cabin, shoot Arnold—he's the leading man—and grab the girl up and ride off with her."

"Anywhere—out of the picture—untill you're called again, and then you—" and so on—until Dick felt qualified to do his part perfectly; yet when he saw the expectant company his wits almost deserted him. He watched the progress of the play with feverish interest because there was a girl—

She had appeared at intervals in the play, and while there was a vague familarity about her face and even her graceful walk, he could not make up his mind whether it was his Marcia or not. Her face was made up a little, as was his own, and both were part of a grotesque looking company. Some one told him her name—Elizabeth Jayne—and because he was afraid to have his dream shattered, he did not pursue the subject further. Then it dawned upon him that this was the girl he was to rescue—surely, he would know then!

He played his part extremely well and found a strange fascination in the work; the girl looked at him once or twice with a faint show of interest, but the grease paint disguised him well. Then came the moment when Dick, the bad man, was to kidnap the hero's sweetheart. Dick mounted his horse, dashed up to the cabin door, shot the hero with a blank cartridge and swooping down, gathered the girl's slight form in his arms and dashed away to the big tree, where he had been told to await the blare of the director's megaphone. "That was fine," said the girl, cordially, as they stopped under the tree. "Set me down, please."

"Finding's keeps," grinned Dick,
looking her straight in the eyes. "Oh!"
she cried, then "Dick!" and she was hugging him tightly.

"Hi!" the megaphone blared at them angrily. "Quit that—it's not in the picture!"

"It's in our picture," grinned Dick as he rode up to the director. "I just found my girl after five years, and—"

"Excused!" bellowed the director:
"stay out for awhile and come back when you get over it—meanwhile we'll do something else. Shoot!"

Man at Post Office Window Literal in Obeying Injunctions of Clerk
in Charge.

The stamp clerk at the Grand Central post office says he has seen many funny things during his 15 years at the window.

A foreign-looking man stepped up to the stamp window the other day and handed the clerk a letter with a 2-cent stamp on it. It was overweight, so the clerk handed it back and said,
"Two cents more."

"No understand," said the man.

"Two cents," repeated the clerk.

"One, two! Two cents!" And he held up two fingers. After repeating this several times, the customer seemed to understand and produced 2 cents, for which he was given another 2-cent stamp. Thereupon he handed the letter back to the clerk and turned to go away.

"Here!" called the clerk, "put the stamp on here. It needs 2 cents more."

"I geeva you two da cent!" exclaimed the man.

"Yes, but put the stamp on here."
And the clerk pointed to the corner of the letter.

The man's face brightened with understanding. "Oh!" he said, and licking the stamp he very carefully stuck

Breaking It Gently.

"Oh, mamma," said little Charlie,
"I've upset the salt-cellar over the clean tablecloth!"

"That was very careless," answered
mother, "but go and brush the salt off, and see that you don't spoil the table cloth."

"But, mother, when any one spills salt they have a quarrel, don't they?"
Charlie now asked.

"Yes, that is so," agreed the mother. "But why do you ask?"

"Well, mother," continued Charlie,
"if they don't spill the salt they don't have a quarrel, do they?"

"No," answered mother. "That's quite right, but I can't see why you ask."

"Well, mother," replied Charlie, getting his back to the wall, "it wasn't the salt I spilled, it was the ink!"

The Shoe That Pinched.

The minister is not the only person who sometimes steps on people's toes at church. At one church the other morning two young women members who had been up late the night before were having difficulty to keep awake.
One of them turned to the other and whispered, "I'm going to doze off a minute. Watch and don't let me snore."

Then was announced the choir's next song. It began, "Arise, awake and put fresh vigor on."

The two young women both did so,
too.—Indianapolis News.

Apprehensive.

She had just received a proposal of marriage from a man she had always regarded more in the light of a brother than a lover.

"Janet," he began, "you know I have always turned to you; that I have always thought of you. May I—that is—oh, will you be my wife?"

"What a start you gave me, Henry," said Janet at last. "Do you know I thought from your manner that you were going to ask me to lend you some money?"

Politeness Paid.

"My butcher congratulated me today on the rumor that clothes are going down."

"Well?"

course, I couldn't kick when he charged me a little more for meat!"—

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS

Inhaling the fumes of turpentine and white lead often weakens the kidneys. That's one reason why so many painters have bad backs and sick kidneys. Exposure, frequent colds and chills and the strain of climbing up and down ladders help start the trouble.

If your back aches, if sharp pains strike you in the back when stooping, lifting or working; if you have headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains; if the urine is discolored or passages painful and scanty, try Doan's Kidney, the remedy so widely used and so well recommended by men in the painting trade. Here's a Paris testimony:

Ed. Richardson, painter and decorator, 552 Vine street, says: "I suffered severely from my back and it put me past going. I am a painter by trade and handling so much turpentine and inhaling its fumes is what I blame for the cause of the trouble. Many a night I was annoyed by the frequent acting of my kidneys and would have to get up many times to pass the secretions
and this greatly disturbed my rest.
I had dizzy spells and felt sick all over until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Oberdorfer's Drug Store. I used several boxes as directed and they fixed me up in good shape."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get

WHEN WILL TRAFFIC LAWS BE OBSERVED?

Ed THE NEWS:

How long are the people of Paris expected to be patient and long suffering?

Lives are endangered, peace and quiet of home life are disturbed by the non-observance of the automobile traffic laws. What are we to do? Appeals have been made to the powers that be, all to no avail. There has been no cessation whatever of the unlawful speeding of machines, up and down the streets, especially on Pleasant street, no cessation in the least of the eternal open cut-out, and both private machines (these are numerous) and trucks (they are everywhere) make the hours from six a. m. to midnight hideous with their noise. Last Sunday afternoon, and night, the racing on the streets of Paris was absolutely unbearable and unlawful.

Now again, I ask, "What are we to do?" We feel that this is no unwarranted complaint, but a just and fair appeal for the comfort and protection of the lives of those who have their homes on Pleasant street, and on Main street, as well. It is not confined to these streets, either. S. O. S. is the earnest appeal from

A. PARIS CITIZEN.

WILL ACT ON PETROLEUM RATES FROM PARIS.

Revision of freight rates on petroleum from Lexington to Paris, Winchester and Versailles is docketed for consideration before the Southern Freight Rate Commission in Atlanta, Ga., August 2. The subject is docketed as follows:

3176. Initiated by Shippers—Petroleum and petroleum products CL from Lexington, Ky., to Paris, Winchester and Versailles, Ky. Present rates are: To Paris and Winchester, 17 cents; to Versailles, 16½ cents per 100 pounds. Proposed rates: 15½ cents per 100 pounds, which is the same as the present fifth class rate.

MARTHA T. GOES LAME

The fine filly, Martha T., owned by W. F. Talbott, of Paris, which was entered in the big race for three-year-olds at Ideal Park, in Binghamton, New York, could not make the start, owing to an injury sustained in transit. She was in charge of trainer John H. Derriksen, who returned to Lexington, after having seen to the comfort of the injured trotter. Martha T.'s trip to Binghamton was a disappointment, in that she was injured in shipping and came off the car lame and could not start. Her hock had been hurt in some manner.

The race was won in sensational style by Sylvia Brooks, the best two-year-old of last season in the Metropolitan circuit, in 2:11½. Her record is but one-quarter of a second slower than that of Hale Garner, one of the best two-year-olds of last season.

WE CANNOT SING THE OLD SONGS.

Sometimes they tinkle in my mind—those ditties sung of yore—They call up fancies left behind and fashions gone before;

Why is it that I'm humming such forgotten things to-day, As "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me" and the "Deacon Went Astray?"

Sometimes I whistled to myself "The Little Boy in Blue;" Sometimes I start "I Can't Tell Why I Love You, But I Do," Or it may be, "I'd Leave My Happy Home for You-oo-oo," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" or "Louisiana Lou."

They think me quaint because I sing "When Reuben Comes to Town;"

My son guffaws when I essay "Go Way Back and Sit Down;" My wife will smile at "Smoky Mokes" and giggle when I drone "She Was Happy Till She Met You, But the Fault Is All Your Own"

I love those lyrics ladies, Annie Moore and Mandy Lee; And those pathetic children, Baby Belle and Only Me! "In the House of Too Much Trouble" makes me shed a tender tear— And also "When the Harvest Days Are Over, Jessie Dear."

"There's Only One Girl in This World for Me" I sing—although I love Bedella, Dollie Gray and Irish Mollie-O;

I like the Man that Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo, too— "He Laid Away His Suit of Gray and Donned the Union Blue."

I do not like this modern jazz—my father said the same Of "Take Your Clothes and Go" I guess, and of "Ain't Dat a Shame?"

Yet when I hear the saxophone's most lamentable storm, I cannot choose but sing "Oh, I Don't Know. You're Not So Warm."

VAST CLAY DEPOSITS FOUND IN STATE

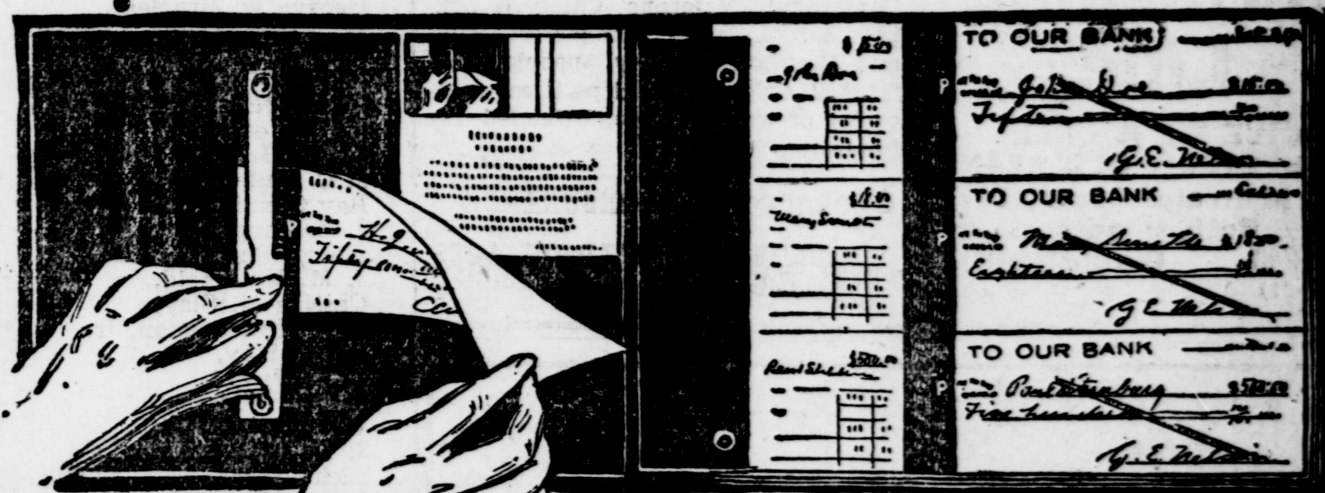

Doctor H. Reis, head of the department of geology of Cornell University, and a great authority on American clays, is in Eastern Kentucky to continue the survey which he is making of the clay resources of the State.

Doctor Reis reports having found in the Purchase vast deposits of clays of a very high grade, which, when developed, will increase greatly the wealth of that region, and of the entire State. Some of the deposits are now being worked, but for the most part they have not been utilized. They are suitable for the manufacture of pottery, china, roof, floor and wall tiling, electrical ware and an endless variety of articles.

Doctor Reis says he has been gratified to observe the general interest which is being shown over the State in the work of the geological survey under the direction of Doctor W. R. Jilison, State Geologist, and looks for a wide distribution and study of the special report which he himself will make at the conclusion of his survey.

CAPT. T. E. MOORE, SR., PASSES TO REWARD

Capt. Thomas E. Moore, aged ninety, a former resident of Shawhan, this county, and one of the best-known Confederate soldiers in Central Kentucky, died Friday afternoon about one o'clock, at his home on East Maxwell street, in Lexington, where he had resided several years. Capt. Moore had been in declining health for many months, due to a complication of diseases.

Capt. Moore was a native of Bourbon county, where he had passed the greater part of his long and useful life. He was a son of the late Williams and Margaret Brand Moore, both of whom were born in Bourbon county in 1792, and who preceded him to the grave many years ago. He spent his younger days on the farm, where he acquired the rudiments of an agricultural training which enabled him to become a successful farmer in later years. He later became engaged in the trotting horse business and had a fine stable of trotters and a remarkably successful breeding business. When the war between the States came up he enlisted in the Confederate cause, and rose from the ranks to the rank of captain, rendering distinguished service to the cause through the four years of that strife. At the close of the war he returned to the peaceful pursuits of farming, in which he remained until some years ago, when he disposed of his property in Bourbon county and moved to Lexington where he resided to the time of his death. Capt. Moore filled many positions of trust during his lifetime, having been Sheriff of Bourbon county two terms, Democratic State Central Committeeman from the Seventh Congressional District for a long period, delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in 1898, and also the National Convention of that party at Kansas City in 1900.

In 1859 Capt. Moore was married to Miss Sarah, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Talitha Shawhan, who survives him. Besides his widow he is survived by the following children: Thomas E. Moore, of Hazard, former County Attorney of Bourbon county; John S. Moore, of Ulrich, Mo.; Mrs. H. C. Shipp, of Lexington; Mrs. H. D. Ament, of East St. Louis, Illinois; Mrs. J. Ernest Cassidy and Miss Minnie Moore, of Lexington, with whom he had made his home for the past fifteen years.

On account of illness in the family the body of Capt. Moore was removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. C. Shipp, at 154 Bell Court, from where the funeral took place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, with services conducted by Rev. B. C. Deweese. The burial followed in the Lexington Cemetery. The committal exercises at the grave were in charge of members of the Confederate Veterans' Camp of Lexington. A large number of Paris and Bourbon county people, old friends, neighbors and political associates of Capt. Moore, attended the funeral.

TOBACCO MARKETING COMMITTEE REPORTS SUCCESS

The Bourbon County Organization Committee, composed of Chairman Samuel Clay, John Woodford, James Caldwell, and others, are meeting with substantial encouragement in the Co-operative Burley Tobacco Marketing Association, and in securing signatures to contracts for marketing tobacco under the association plan.

Each day adds new names of successful farmers to the list, and with a majority of the growers fast getting into the pool, the success of the venture should be assured. Every grower who has failed to sign up his acreage in the Association should avail himself of the opportunity at once, thereby relieving members of the committee of the necessity of making a personal trip to see him individually.

Many of the precinct workers who have been conducting an active campaign during the week in various precincts called on a large number of tobacco growers and distributed contracts and explanatory literature, and will come back to all these men this week, when it is hoped the majority will pledge their tobacco with the association.

The time limit for securing contracts pledging 75 per cent. of the output of the district to the proposed association is Nov. 15. With 50,000,000 pounds pledged by Sept. 1 and a number of counties "over the top" leaders in the movement say its success is assured, and that the remaining time will be used in signing up outlying counties and in completing plans for the further development of the co-operative association.

A meeting of growers and tenants will be held at the Shawhan School House to-night (Tuesday) at seven o'clock. Chairman Sam Clay and others will speak in the interest of the Association plan. On Thursday evening at seven o'clock, Chairman Clay and committee will meet the growers at the Ruddles Mills school house to discuss the various aspects of the tobacco situation. Growers in the two above-named precincts are urged to attend these meetings and assist the committee members in perfecting their labors at the earliest possible moment.

Up to the present time a total of 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco, approximately three thousand acres, have been pledged to the Association plan in this county. The campaign was resumed yesterday, and will be continued through the week.

The following is a list of growers who have signed contracts under the association plan since our last issue.

Mrs. Fanniebell Sutherland was the principal speaker at the mass meeting of the Community Recreational Club held Friday night at the Bourbon County Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Elizabeth Carr, the president, who gave the opening address and announced the grand march, which was led by Mrs. J. C. Nickerson, and in which nearly all took part. The games, "Lemon, Lemon, Lemon," and "Laughing Hat" were played. Mrs. Sutherland took for her subject, "The Three Kinds of Illiteracy."

Other short addresses were made by Owen L. Davis and W. O. Hinton. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Edward Prichard and Mr. Percy Reid, and two readings were given by Miss Irene Bramlette. The games were in charge of Mrs. J. C. Nickerson, Misses Sara Power and Margaret Santen. At the close of the program refreshments were served.

BASE BALL NOTES

Paris and Cynthia battled a great game on the Cynthia grounds Sunday afternoon, the Paris team being shut out by a 2 to 0 score, after a game fight to put two men over the plate. Cynthia scored one run in the third and one in the seventh. Bland, centerfielder for Cynthia, robbed Paris of a chance to get in two runs when with Paris men on second and third, he caught a long hit fly in a difficult catch, literally scooping the ball from the grass before it touched the ground. Both teams played like veterans, and the fans went wild over the many difficult and brilliant plays put over by both teams.

The batteries were: Paris—Camparioni and Carter; Cynthia—King and McIlwaine.

Camparioni pitched a masterly game, with fine support behind the bat by Carter. Camparioni allowed but four hits. All the members of the team played their positions in fine style. Paris has a team now worth patronizing. Shaw, of Paris, unpired. The score:

Paris.....000 000 000—0
Cynthia.....001 000 100—2

The Paris Ruggles team will play the Winchester Hustlers on the Second street park in this city, next Saturday afternoon, the game to be called promptly at three o'clock. Winchester will present their crack battery, Shulte, who has pitched his team to victory in five successive games, and Dugan, catcher. Paris fans may expect to see one of the very best games of the season. Sunday afternoon the Cynthia team will play a return game with Paris at the Second street park. Paris will have on the pitching and catching positions Carter and Carter, a strong combination.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank each of my friends who assisted me by their vote and their influence as well, in the recent primary election, and all during my campaign for the office of Jailer of Bourbon county. I desire especially to thank the ladies of the city and county for their aid, in this respect.

I shall make it my aim to discharge the duties of the office to the best of my ability, and promise to do all in my power to reward the confidence and merit a continuance of the good opinion of those whose votes enabled me to win. It is manifestly impossible to see each one in person, so I take the means that is second best, THE NEWS' columns, to reach them. I thank each and everyone.

FAMOUS CONFEDERATE SOLDIER
ANSWERS DEATH SUMMONS

Col. Will L. Crabb, the last soldier to lay down the flag of Confederacy, died at his home in Eminence last week. He was 77 years old, and had been a resident of Henry county for the entire period of his life.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mattie Crabb and five grandchildren; Captain W. L. Crabb, of the United States Marines, now stationed in Santo Domingo; Thomas Crabb, of Chicago, Ill.; Todd Crabb, of Louisville; Mrs. Alfred Brady, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. Gamblin McCarty, of Owensboro, Ky. His only son, Lindsey T. Crabb, was, until his death two years ago, a resident of Louisville.

Colonel Crabb was born in Henry county, Ky., August 17, 1844. At the age of 18 he enlisted in Gen. John H. Morgan's command, Company H, 4th Kentucky Cavalry, and was in almost every engagement in which that famous cavalry commander fought. He took part in a fight at New Castle, Ky., in which all the Confederate side were killed or wounded except himself. He served all through the war and carried the flag that surrendered the last armed force of the Confederacy east of the Mississippi river, at Mt. Sterling, nearly a year after Lee's surrender.

He was an advocate of the Democratic party and was appointed by Governor Knott on his staff with rank of Colonel.

Feeling Fine—Gives Credit
To Tanlac

"I was going down hill at a rapid pace and it certainly is lucky for me I got Tanlac when I did," said H. M. O'Hair, 401 West Jefferson street, Louisville, Ky.

"I was so run down and weak I was not able to hit a lick of work and hadn't been in some time. All my troubles began when my stomach got out of order. First I lost my appetite, then I got to the point where no matter how careful I was about what I ate I suffered afterwards from indigestion. I couldn't get much sleep at night and in the morning used to feel all fagged out and even worse than I did when I went to bed. Finally I got so bad off I had to give up my job and was about as blue and discouraged as a man ever gets to be.

"Tanlac suited my case exactly. Inside of a month it had me on my feet and back on the job feeling fine. My stomach is in apple-pie order now. I sleep like a top at night and get up in the morning feeling as spry and happy as a boy. I'm convinced beyond a doubt that Tanlac is the best medicine in the world."

STANDING IN HIS LIGHT

PARTISAN POLITICS NOT WANTED

Authorities On Both Sides Agree That School Offices
Should Not Be Political Plums

TIGERT APPOINTED NEW COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION.

John J. Tigert, college professor of Lexington, Kentucky, who has been appointed Commissioner of Education to succeed Philander P. Claxton.

Two important amendments to the constitution of the state will be voted on at the November election. The general public is anxious to know more about these amendments and how they may help the definite development of a strong school system in Kentucky.

Your correspondent has been fortunate in securing a strong, short, and very much-to-the-point statement concerning the proposed amendments from the Hon. J. Tigert. What Mr. Tigert has to say on the important subject of schools, should carry a great weight as he has lately been appointed Commissioner of Education for the United States by President Harding. Mr. Tigert was one of the faculty of the University of Kentucky prior to his appointment as Commissioner.

John J. Tigert

Mr. Tigert's statement is given below:

"In reply to your questions suggesting an expression in regard to the proposed constitutional amendments, one to take the State Superintendent of Instruction out of politics, and the other to allow a reapportionment of the State funds for school purposes, allow me to say that I do not know anything which would advance the cause of education in this Commonwealth more than the passage of these two amendments.

Keep Out of Politics.

"If the State Superintendent could be selected upon qualifications and aside from the issues of political campaigns, and then be allowed to continue in office after he has reached a high degree of efficiency, this one thing alone would improve the efficiency of our schools in an immeasurable way. I do not know of anything so important for the betterment of education in Kentucky.

Child Needs Square Deal.

"Hardly less desirable would be the amendment which would bring about a reapportionment of the funds so that educational opportunities might be equalized throughout the state. Giving a square deal to the children in the rural communities, to my mind, would be an inestimable benefit coming from such a reapportionment. It would give me great satisfaction if both of these amendments could be passed. In the name of the children of our great state, let us put them through."

CLAXTON ALSO APPROVES.

That men and women in both of the great political parties think alike concerning the management of the public schools of the state, should go without the saying. For fear the average voter might allow partisan politics to sway him or her at the November election, some quotations from a recent article by the Hon. P. P. Claxton, are given here. Mr. Claxton of Tennessee served as Commissioner of Education for the United States under President Woodrow Wilson.

The reader is asked to compare what the new Commissioner has said above and what the retiring Commissioner has to say below concerning the very grave danger of mixing politics with the school affairs of the state. The reader should bear in mind the fact that these men represent in a measure the two great parties.

Mr. Claxton wrote as follows: "Like Topsey, our state departments of education have just 'grewed up.' Few of them can look back to any definite birth as state departments of education. Very few, if any, except those that have been re-elected by recent acts of legislature or constitutional amendments, have been thoughtfully created and organized in full consciousness of the functions they should perform."

Office Is Not Political.

"In most of the states the mistake was made of supposing that the office of State Superintendent could be made a political office subject directly or indirectly to the vicissitudes of partisan government, as if, forsooth, the political parties as such ever advocated different educational policies, and as if the people would tolerate partisan influences in their schools. As a political office, elective or appointive, it did not formerly and in some states does not now, rank with other offices, either in pay or in importance within itself, or as a stepping stone to political preferment considered of a higher grade or more desirable.

P. P. Claxton.

"From the standpoint of statesmanship and the public welfare, all people are interested alike in the schools. Our political parties do not differ in regard to educational principles or practices any more than they do in the Ten Commandments or the moral code; and to attempt to make education a matter of partisan politics is good neither for education nor for politics. Education is the largest and most important part of what has been called our 'purposive government,' through which all the people are served and united, rather than controlled under policies on which people are divided into parties."

GREAT WORK OF U. S. REMOUNT STATION

'Accomplishing Much to Build Unexcelled Line of Cavalry Horses Invaluable to Army.

The World War was the great caldron in which birth was given to many organizations looking to the leadership of America in every path of economic activity; and no such activity bearing on the future of one of our most vital essentials compares with that of the American Remount Association, an organization composed of some of the country's leading men. It came into being as a result of the dire necessity of more and better blooded horses for the United States Army. Thus, with kindred organizations, it is promoting one of the most important undertakings looking toward our future security.

The object of the Remount Association is the improvement of general-purpose horse conditions in every State in the Union; and because of the importance of the work entailed, Col. F. S. Armstrong, of the United States Army, has been placed in charge, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., where his department is in close touch with every other governmental agency. The Remount Association, with the co-operation of others similarly engaged, has, during the eighteen months of its existence, succeeded in getting one hundred and sixty-four stallions—eighty-five of which were donated by patriotic organizations and individuals—for distribution throughout the country, to be utilized by farmers desirous of raising the standard of their horses. In laying out the work, it was decided to profit by the experience of foreign governments and locate thoroughbred sires in every grazing community of the country. The whole was divided into zones, and a plan of breeding, to the interest of the farmers of America, inaugurated. Recent reports from the Association's headquarters in Washington show that there has been an average of fifty-five mares for each stallion, although the breeding season is not yet concluded. Also, at a meeting of the Association, it was shown that there was a demand for some seven hundred horses last Spring, and that, for the coming Spring, this demand will be doubled or even trebled.

Both the race courses and the thoroughbred nurseries constantly are being drawn upon for horses of proven courage in the acid test of racing. It remains for them to produce the only type that measures up to the standard destined to supply the United States cavalry remounts worthy of the men in the service.

It may be added that, owing to the broad plan of fostering the industry of horse breeding as practiced for generations by the British, French and Italian Governments, these countries were in the enviable position of ability to supply their armies, which had never introduced such a system was obliged to draw upon the resources of the allied nations to horse her men.

The Household Tyrant

By MURIEL BLAIR

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I've stood it for thirty years and I reckon I can last out, now I've got so far," was the homely way in which Ezra Dockrill put it.

"There's no need," insisted his old-time friend, Greg Parsons. "Be sensible, Ezra, and take an old comrade's advice. Melinda Dockrill, your wife, is the very best housekeeper in Carlton, and nobody disputes it. She tends her house and minds her own business so far as her neighbors are concerned, but she has been hard, terribly hard on you."

There was a good deal of sense and reason to what both men said, and despite Ezra's weak explanations their point of view was practically identical. Ezra was beginning to get the reputation of being henpecked, and his excellent wife, excellent in some ways—had degenerated into a scold. Melinda Dockrill was fast growing into a household tyrant. When Walter Maywell came courting their pretty daughter, Flora, she opposed the match tooth and nail. When just now some old Spanish American war comrades of Ezra wanted him to go over to Pelham to a reunion, she hid his old uniform, kept him awake two nights lecturing him on the perniciousness of wasting his time, and flatly refused to allow him to even march to the depot with his friends.

That might have been well enough, for, as said before, Ezra was meek, patient and a self-sacrificing sort of man. Right on top of this decision of the masterful Melinda, however, there was a scene in the household that appealed to another side of Ezra's nature. Young Maywell had come to Mrs. Dockrill in a frank, manly way to ask permission to marry Flora. She had put her husband aside in the discussion without even consulting him. The result was that poor Walter went about town, a dejected reproach to the kind-souled Ezra, and poor Flora mourned till all the happiness seemed gone out of her life. That evening Ezra came down to the Parsons home.

"See here, Greg," he said, "we were talking about Melinda today."

"Quite right, Ezra; what about it?"

"Why, just this—I've been thinking over what you said."

"About time, should say," responded Parsons.

"I don't care for myself. I can stand Melinda's peculiarities. That poor girl of mine, though, and young Maywell—she's set them grieving their hearts away with her stubborn ways, and it isn't right, it isn't right!" and Ezra broke down.

"Ezra," said Parsons very seriously, "if you will follow out my directions I'll guarantee to cure your wife of her tantrums in a week."

"Greg," responded Ezra, grasping the hand of his old-time friend fervidly, "you do just that and I'll give you those old war relics of mine you've coveted so long. What am I to do to help you?"

If Ezra Dockrill was mystified as to the plan of his friend, his erratic helpmeet had clear hysterics when she found he had defied her authority and had gone to the reunion. She rushed down to the Parsons home, enraged, then anxious, and finally alarmed.

"I've got a sort of doleful story to tell you, Melinda," said her old friend. "I'm afraid Ezra has broken the traces. It's like a horse checked up too high. Give him the chance and the critter'll sprint."

"Why, what do you mean? Surely nothing serious has happened to Ezra?" cried Mrs. Dockrill, a quick catch in her voice.

"It's the warlike spirit, you see, Melinda," explained Mr. Parsons. Everyone is talking about the Mexican war. Why, there were lots of the old soldiers just wild to enlist. Ezra is a brave man. The war spirit got him. They were recruiting at Pelham. If he's joined the army again he'll make his mark."

It was there that Mrs. Dockrill broke down. "Tell you now," observed the specious Parsons, "I might have a little influence with the adjutant general, and Ezra, too, if he really has enlisted. You've got to promise concession. His heart is set on Flora and young Maywell."

"I'll agree! I'll agree!" interrupted Mrs. Dockrill vehemently. "Only get my dear husband back and he'll never have to complain of me again."

She passed a sleepless night. When that precious old schemer, Parsons, presented her husband the next day at noon, Melinda threw her arms about the neck of her prodigal spouse, and Parsons sneaked away feeling quite mean for giving so hard a lesson to a deserving though at times somewhat contentious woman.

The Choice.

"Fifty dollars a week!"

The Old Man snorted.

"You've got a nerve, talking about marrying my daughter on fifty a week! Why, that wouldn't pay her street car fare!"

"Humph!" grunted the Young Champ. "If she doesn't hang around home any more'n that I can't use her!"

"Did your show have a long run?"

"No," replied Mr. Stormington Barnes. "We didn't have any run worth mentioning. But we had some nice long walks."

Announcing The New Buick "Four"

—A Thoroughbred Four, Completing
the Famed Buick Line

The new Four-Cylinder Buick, here announced, is a thoroughbred—a pedigreed car well worthy of its name.

Down to the very last detail, this new model possesses every quality of enduring serviceability, complete comfort, and distinctive appearance that have always characterized Buick automobiles.

The advent of this new Four makes the Buick 1922 line complete. It offers to purchasers of a car of this size all the quality and service that go to make up the name "Buick."

The engine, of course, is of the time-tested Buick Valve-in-Head type. The year-after-year concentration of Buick's engineering skill and experience in building Valve-in-Head motors assures the highest standard of performance obtainable today.

Every other unit is of a quality equal to the power plant. The whole assembly constitutes a perfectly balanced chassis which is of typical Buick construction. The equipment of Cord Tires is merely evidence of the quality which characterizes the entire car.

Two open and two closed body types mounted on the Buick built chassis comprise the new series.

Even the most casual inspection of the details of design and workmanship will reveal that full measure of quality which motorists have learned to associate with Buick.

Obviously a high grade automobile—a genuine Buick production—the prices listed below make this great Four even greater. A value such as this is possible only because of the combination of Buick engineering skill devoted to the one ideal of quality, Buick production facilities developed over nearly a quarter of a century, and Buick's nation-wide distribution and service organization.

The Buick Motor Company is proud of the Buick Four. It has the faith of long experience in this newest addition to its line. It places upon it unreservedly the Buick guarantee carried by every Buick automobile produced. That its confidence is well placed is manifested not only by the keen interest with which motorists have awaited this announcement, but also the advance orders placed by distributors, dealers, and the general public.

DEATHS.

THOMPSON

The body of Mrs. J. R. Thompson, who died last week at her home in El Paso, Texas, arrived in Lexington, Friday night. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, with services conducted at the grave in the Lexington Cemetery. Mrs. Thompson is survived by her husband, J. R. Thompson, one sister, Mrs. Isaac Wilmott, of near Hutchison, and three brothers, Claude, Winston and Russell Spears, all of Fayette county.

McGINLEY.

—Relatives in this city received information Sunday of the death in Covington of Miss Sarah McGinley, aged fifty-four, a former resident of Paris. Miss McGinley, who had been making her home in Cincinnati since moving from Paris several years ago, had gone to the St. Elizabeth Hospital, in Covington, to receive treatment for a slight wound on her foot. While seated in a chair, talking to one of the nurses she suddenly gasped, fell over and expired before medical aid could reach her. Physicians pronounced her death to heart trouble of an organic nature. The body was removed to her home at 725 Marion Avenue, Avondale, and prepared for burial.

Miss McGinley was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Owen McGinley, of Paris, and a sister of Messrs. Thomas and John McGinley, of Paris, who are at present on the wheat and flax ranch of E. F. Spears & Sons, in Saskatchewan, Canada; Henry McGinley, and Mrs. Edward Rohmweber, of Cincinnati. The time and place of the funeral and burial had not been learned as THE NEWS went to press last night.

TALBOTT

—A beautiful life closed Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, when death removed from earthly scenes Mrs. Salie Wartford Talbott, aged seventy-four, at her home on Main street.

Mrs. Talbott had been in declining health for some months, and her death was probably hastened by exhaustion due to her constant attention to and attendance upon her sister, Mrs. Cordelia Parker, who died at the Talbott home some weeks ago. Between the sisters there existed a strong bond of love that was rudely sundered when death took Mrs. Parker after a long illness. Mrs. Talbott was constantly at her bedside ministering to her needs. In this mission of love her frail frame was greatly overtaxed, but she would not give up, and remained the devoted nurse to the end. To this was added the strain of a physical ailment that would not yield to treatment. During the last days of her life her strength gradually ebbed away and death came peacefully, as befits those who lived within the meaning of religious well-doing.

Mrs. Talbott was the daughter of the late William and Margaret Kelly Ford, pioneer citizens of this city, and had been a resident of Paris all her life. In her girlhood she was married to Mr. W. T. Talbott, to whom she was ever a loving counselor, a devoted wife and a helpmate in every sense of the word. She was a devoted member of St. Peter's Episcopal church, of this city, and was prominent in all the good works of that denomination. She was a woman of kindly impulses, gentle and affectionate, devoted to her friends, her home and her church, and her friends were legion. She played well her part in life and her going away has left a void in home and church circle that will be hard to fill.

The funeral was held at St. Peter's Episcopal church, at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, with services conducted by Rev. Walter S. Cain, the rector, assisted by Rev. Geo. H. Harris, of Versailles, his predecessor, and a close personal friend of the family. The burial followed on the family lot in the Paris Cemetery. The pallbearers were: John Yerkes, Wm. G. Talbott, Hugh I. Brent, Jo Varden, White Varden, Blair Varden.

MATRIMONIAL.

EGALITE-BITTERMAN

—Miss Mattie Egalite and Mr. Walter Bitterman, of Lexington, came to Paris, Friday, and presenting a marriage license granted by the Clerk of the Fayette County Court, were married by a Paris minister. After the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Bitterman left for a short honeymoon trip. They will return this week to make their home in Lexington. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Egalite. The bridegroom is a prominent young Lexington business man. The news of their wedding was as a surprise to their many friends, the young people having made no announcement of their plans.

POTTS-THOMAS

—A marriage license was issued Friday from County Clerk Pearce Paton's office to Clarence Thomas, twenty-one, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Thomas, of near Paris, and Miss Elizabeth C. Potts, sixteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Potts, of Millersburg. The young lady's father was present, and gave his consent to the issuance of the license.

After securing license the young people went to the home of Rev. W. E. Ellis, pastor of the Paris Christian church, where they were united in marriage. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Potts, of Millersburg. The bridegroom is employed in a Millersburg garage. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are "at home" to their friends in Millersburg.

EVANS-McMILLAN

—The marriage of Judge Charles A. McMillan, of Paris, and Miss Katherine Evans, of Fairfield, East Moriches, New York, will take place at the home of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Thomas Evans, in that city, at seven o'clock to-night. After a wedding tour to points of interest in the East, Judge and Mrs. McMillan will be at home to their friends, on Mt. Airy avenue, in this city, after October 1. The wedding will be a distinct social event.

The future Mrs. McMillan is a very handsome and talented young woman, a native of Nicholasville, and a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, in Pennsylvania, and of Columbia University, in New York. She was for some time a member of the Paris High School faculty, as teacher of chemistry and biology. She was awarded her M. A. degree at Johns-Hopkins University, in Baltimore, Md. She did splendid service for the Red Cross during the war, and was abroad when engaged by cable as a member of the P. H. S. faculty. Judge McMillan is a prominent member of the Bourbon county bar, having filled the positions of County Attorney, County Judge and Master Commissioner of the Bourbon Circuit Court.

A CARD OF THANKS

The election is over and we are all just as good Democrats as we were before. We have nothing to be grumpy for. I'm thankful for one thing, the earnest support and good wishes of my friends, especially the good people of Millersburg and vicinity. I thank them, and I thank everyone who gave me their vote and influence. I have no complaint to make, for I'm a good Democrat. While I'm sorry I will not serve the people of Bourbon as Jailer, I'm glad another good man won. Again, I thank one and all for anything they did for me in my race and at the polls.
